God's Promises in Judges

The book of Judges in the Bible contains several promises that God made to the Israelites during the time of the judges. Here are some of the main promises:

1. Renewal of the covenant: God promised to renew His covenant with the Israelites when they turned back to Him after periods of disobedience (Judges 2:1-5).
2. Mercy and compassion: God promised to show mercy and compassion to the Israelites when they repented and turned back to Him (Judges 2:18, Judges 10:15-16).
3. Justice and righteousness: God promised to raise up judges to lead the Israelites and administer justice and righteousness among them (Judges 2:16-18, Judges 5:9-11).
4. Protection and provision: God promised to protect and provide for the Israelites when they obeyed Him (Judges 2:18).
5. Preservation of a remnant: Even when the Israelites were unfaithful and suffered the consequences of their sin, God promised to preserve a remnant of His people to carry on His covenant (Judges 2:14-15, Judges 6:36-40).
6. Deliverance from oppression: God promised to deliver the Israelites from oppression when they cried out to Him for help (Judges 3:9, Judges 10:10-16).
7. Deliverance through leaders: God promised to raise up leaders, or judges, to deliver the Israelites from their enemies (Judges 2:16-18, Judges 4:4-5).
8. Instruction and guidance: God promised to provide instruction and guidance for the Israelites through His law and through the prophets (Judges 2:10-12, Judges 6:7-10).
9. Blessings and curses: God promised to bless the Israelites when they obeyed Him, but to bring curses upon them when they disobeyed (Judges 2:20-22).
10. Faithfulness to His covenant: God promised to be faithful to His covenant with the Israelites, even when they were unfaithful to Him (Judges 2:20-22).
11. Deliverance from enemies: God promised to deliver the Israelites from their enemies when they turned to Him and cried out for help (Judges 3:9, Judges 6:14-16).
12. Peace and rest: When the Israelites followed God's ways, He promised to give them peace and rest from their enemies (Judges 3:11, Judges 5:31).

13. Freedom and independence: God promised to give the Israelites freedom and independence from foreign powers when they trusted in Him (Judges 6:7-10, Judges 8:22-23).
11. Renewal of strength: God promised to renew the strength of His people when they were weak and oppressed (Judges 6:14-16, Judges 16:28-30).
12. Restoration of land and prosperity: God promised to restore the land and prosperity of the Israelites when they repented and turned back to Him (Judges 6:11-16, Judges 10:15-16).
13. Divine intervention: God promised to intervene on behalf of the Israelites when they were in danger or distress (Judges 4:14-15, Judges 15:18-19).
14. Abundant provision: God promised to provide abundantly for the Israelites when they trusted in Him and followed His ways (Judges 6:36-40, Judges 13:8-9).
15. Fulfillment of prophecy: God promised to fulfill His prophetic word to the Israelites, such as the prophecy of the coming Messiah (Judges 13:5).
16. Unity among the tribes: God promised to unite the twelve tribes of Israel into one people under His rule (Judges 20:1).
17. Authority and power: God promised to give authority and power to His chosen leaders, such as Gideon and Samson (Judges 6:14-16, Judges 15:14-15).
